CHAPTERS 2009 AUTHORS

TIM TINGLE, a sought-after Choctaw storyteller and popular speaker, is an award-winning author of Native American fiction and folklore. His works include "Walking the Choctaw Road," "Crossing Bok Chitto," "Spirits Dark and Light" and "Fifty Texas Ghost Stories." His latest title, "When Turtle Grew Feathers," is his first early childhood read-aloud book.

JEFF MARTIN is the editor of "The Customer Is Always Wrong: The Retail Chronicles," which was nominated for the National Book Critics Circle Award. In this collection of true-life tales, Martin has gathered together writers and humorists of all stripes to offer a gold mine of cringe-inducing stories about life in the retail world. Martin also is the author of the upcoming "My Dog Ate My Nobel Prize: The Fabricated Memoirs of Jeff Martin," which will be released this fall.

TERESA MILLER is the executive director for the Oklahoma Center for Poets and Writers, executive producer and host of the public television program "Writing Out Loud," and an acclaimed author. Her works include the novels "Remnants of Glory" and "Family Correspondence," and her latest book "Means of Transit," which she calls "a slightly embellished memoir." She currently is working on a sequel to "Family Correspondence."
